Personal Profile:

Tra My Thi Tran is a Vietnamese mental health care practitioner. She leads the psychology department of Blue Dragon Children's Foundation, a nonprofit providing comprehensive care to children in crisis and rescuing survivors of human trafficking. She provides psychotherapy for children and adults surviving traumatic experiences. She applies the biopsychosocial spiritual model in approaching and working with clients from disadvantaged backgrounds. Being trained and licensed as a master social worker in the United States, her primary therapeutic approaches are based on Trauma-Informed Care, Play Therapy, Parent-Child Interaction Therapy, and Dialectical Behavioral Therapy. Tra My strongly believes in the power of therapeutic play and often integrate play therapy practices to help her clients process their traumatic experiences as well as strengthening parent-child secure attachment.
