Personal Profile:

I believe in the magical power of play. "Play is the language of children and toys are their vocabulary" it is said. I have been working with children since 14 years. I specialize in management of ADHD, autism and behavioral problems and all kind of special and emotional needs. My goal is to work towards the holistic development children and to foster an accepting environment where they get the encouragement and appreciation along with the proper guidance to live up to their potential. I believe in using fun play strategies to build healthy relationships between children and parents. I am passionate and willing to help children in developing their social skills, life skills, fine and gross motor skills. I have chosen this as my career so that through playful activities, I can help another bud preparing to bloom.
